

Wouldn't it be fun to stop
keeping it all together?

Party Face

A NEW COMEDY

Written by Isabel Mahon Directed by Amanda Bearse

YOU'RE INVITED TO A PARTY
THAT'S FULL OF SURPRISES!

Academy Award, Golden Globe and BAFTA Award-winning icon Hayley Mills (Pollyanna; The Parent Trap) stars in the New York premiere of a new play written by Irish playwright and actor Isabel Mahon and directed by Amanda Bearse (Married...With Children). It comes direct from Ireland, where it continues to receive standing ovations from sold-out audiences.

Watch as plans are toppled when a young woman's mother brings her own food to her daughter's party—as well as the “right” person to be her daughter's new best friend. While they put on their “party faces” and hope for the best, facades crack and secrets leak. Tears and laughter abound as their revelry leads to revelations.

Come see this hilarious and biting honest play about the lengths we go to convince people we've got it all together—and the love and acceptance we find once we allow the truth to expose our imperfectly perfect selves. You won't want to miss this invitation to celebrate life!

NEW YORK CITY CENTER – STAGE II
131 West 55th Street (between 6th & 7th Avenues)
New York, NY 10019

Groups 10+
Previews begin January 11, 2018
Opening Night January 22, 2018
Limited Engagement through April 8, 2018

GreatWhiteWay.com
(212) 757-9117 | (888) 517-0112